

NURS 203 : Fundamentals of Nursing

Fundamental skills are essential to the profession of nursing based on the metaparadigm of person, health, environment, and nursing. Students will focus on health promotion for individuals with altered health patterns, including skills required in providing competent and compassionate person-centered/family care. This course has didactic and clinical components.

Semester Hours 5.0

Prerequisites

BIOL 120 and BIOL 121

Corequisites

NURS 204 and NURS 205.