School of Business Concentrations

While a concentration is not required to major in Business Administration or Accounting, the opportunity exists for students at the School of Business to develop a specialty area in Leadership, Entrepreneurship, International Business, or Hospitality Management. To earn a concentration in one of the listed concentration areas, consult the requirements below:

Objective

The Hospitality Management concentration allows students to explore the professional area of Hospitality Management from the managerial perspective. Courses include topics ranging from cost accounting to tourism, service operations, and marketing. To earn a concentration in Hospitality Management, students must augment their required BUAD or ACCT coursework with hospitality management-focused courses and complete a capstone course project (BUAD 449) on hospitality management.
