

ENVS 322X: Environmental Policy

Historical development and current assessment of policy for environmental protection. Emphasis on the geographic nature of policies, resulting from the interplay of local, state, and federal governments and non-governmental organizations. This course satisfies the proficiency requirements for Oral Communication and Written Communication in the disciplines.

Credits: 3

Program: Geography & Earth & Environmental Sciences