

NURS 400: Pathophysiology

This online course offers the study of the physiological changes resulting from illness and imbalances which may occur throughout the lifespan. The highlight is on the relevance of concepts of adaptation and homeostasis of the body systems and association to nursing practice. Student must be admitted to the RN to BSN program. Three semester credit hours.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites:

Anatomy and Physiology; Microbiology.

Program: Nursing