

PSYC 345X : Psychological Development and Religious Faith

Relationship of cognitive, moral, and emotional developmental processes to the formation of religious faith from childhood through older adulthood. Special emphasis on James Fowler's faith development theory, including psychological and theological sources, critiques, and alternative approaches.

Semester Hours 3.0

Prerequisites

PSYC 102 and junior status or instructor permission.